797 The church in Riangkamiŏ is built with refer-177 ence to the four ritual sibs of Kottang, Hurin, 346 Keleng, and Marang. This is an example of the [64] rule used: anything of a social nature is all right, but if it is of a religious nature and related to the old spirits or ghosts, etc., Catholicism won't take it. This is like the [171] death feasts in the Toradja country, where the Protestants will let the Christians go to these social rites but not to the great exorcism rites. Thus the Catholics here are not allowed to go to the old rites on the nama in front of the korke, but as the priest admitted, it is hard for the folk here to see the difference, and they tend to regard these retained aspects of paganism as full paganism because they are symbols of the whole pagan system.

797 He told much that was interesting. There is 178 in paganism here a need for a girl to be the 243 rice maiden for the fertility rites (Vatter[1] 796 tells the story too), and the old adat chiefs insisted in one kampong that at least one girl should not be converted, as at least one is needed to be the rice maiden. This shows the desperate plight of paganism. They must beg to have something vital allowed to remain. "Give us one only," they ask. He said it is true that just about all of the young people are Catholic, but many of the old remain pagan.

[771] Wae Later, in Wailolong the guru Roy said there are few, but very few young people who are pagan.
578 He told us about a war in which a man was killed 411 yesterday. It was a border war between Leloba and Waibalun and the police had to stop it.
They fight these wars all the time, with bow and spear and knife. I asked if maybe it were not 511 because they were hungry and need land. And [578] hunger and misery cause aggression anyway. He denied this, but I think it is true, especially 511 as I see more of this country. This area is terribly poor and overcrowded, full of stones, and has little water. The girls and women have [312] to haul water for Leloba from the coast, which is three kilometers off. And there is little food in the town. They are really hungry.

164 Vatter told of great illnesses here, and I 511 can see many examples of this today. Sore eyes are terrible and probably caused by lack of vitamins. There are many children with large bellies, skin sores, etc. Nowhere before have I seen such misery in regard to mere existence. Last year, a priest told us later, there was a famine here. And now I can see how vital the old rainmaking and the practices of the tuan tanah must be here.

797 At the mission headquarters in Larantuka we 634 were told that it is hard for the mission to 661 make plans here, because every time they get an 423 improvement, for example, in the land system, 427 the radja comes in and seizes the best land.
624 Also the tuan tanah stands up against all changes, and he is a "chiseler" also. Thus if they have a project which brings acres of improved land, the bigwigs wait until the work is done on it and then take the best part for themselves. The local people thus lose their land and many have thus been forced to work on the radja's land or for other big men as sharecroppers. Evidently the common division here is one-fourth of the crop for the sharecropper. The priests seem to regard the tuan tanah, who is the ritual and adat leader, as the worst.

622 We had some gin with the priest and then went 159 to the house of the guru Roy. He was Vatter's[1] assistant, and his house is the biggest in the kampong. He could be the kepala kampong, but because he is a guru, he passed the post on to his younger brother. They belong to the Hurin suku, which is different from the usual thing,

764 with upright stone. They are built by indi-211 viduals to commemorate their own name. There [554] is great vanity here in keeping one's name alive after death. Thus the ngadu builder gets his name on the ngadu too. There are no offerings, however, at these rest places.

231 The Nageh in Soa kill animals with spears 411 as they are released (probably a hunting survival). Perhaps this is related to Toradja spearing?

Larantuka: We left Ende on Friday, January 556 6, and after ten and a half hours we got to 237 Larantuka. There we met a young Chinese trader 177 who was born in Lomblem and whose father has a 438 toko there. They are now in Surabaja, but he comes through Flores and the islands to buy stuff each year. He is now buying kemiri nuts. He told me a lot about Lomblem. He said that there are thousands of tusks in Lomblem alone. And he said that Maumere, which is relatively rich in various products, is cornering a large part of the tusks of Flores. In other places, for example, in Larantuka, there are fewer tusks now, and people are beginning to pay money instead. The Maumere folk, he said, think nothing of money. The real wealth and goal of all striving is tied up in the tusks. He said that the Chinese brought the tusks in originally and told the radjas here that they were the teeth of the naga (which was important locally before that). The radjas paid dearly for them, and soon all the folk here wanted them. Hence, thousands were imported by the Chinese. It may have been the same situation as that which obtains with the mokko in the Alor area. They too may well be from China.

511 This Chinese said that in Lomblem the folk 461 want very little. They work a little, just 185 enough to get the corn going, and then drink 273 enough gin to go to sleep. When drunk they 511 sing a little and then go to sleep. The only 461 time they work hard, and this consists of 185 bringing in coconuts and other stuff to the [273] Chinese, is when they want to get clothes for feasts and when they have to pay taxes. Their only thorn is taxation. Without taxes they would be completely happy. I heard later, in 237 regard to the tusks, that there are very few 438 in Wailolong, perhaps only ten. However, they 556 circulate and keep the system going. The assistant said that many have been sold because the people need money so badly. Many were sold to the people in Tandjung Bunga.

614 We When we went to Wailolong we met the assis-241 tant on the section of Wailolong which is on 796 the side road near Leloba. He was there getting 231 census material. We went off there and attended a rite of the Leworita suku, or rather one of the ama of the suku. It was the rite for the beginning of the agricultural season. The big kampong rite was held first, and here it was held on Christmas. Then, each suku has a similar rite, and then again each ama. They are just now getting around to the ama rites.
[343] In this section there are two kebang (lumbung or barns) adat, i.e. suku or ama barns. The big kepala barn is that of the Number One suku (here Ama Dotang [usually Ama Kottang] which is near the main korke). The two suku represented here are Lewodoreng and Leworita. This rite was held under the adat barn of Leworita (where jaws of sacrificed pigs hang), but the land is owned by Lewodoreng. This is why the men who played the roles of Kottang and Kelen (head and feet) were not from Leworita but from Lewodoreng.

The old pagans (some were not so old) did the rites, but the Christians stood all around, and they ate what they could get later, probably. A small pig was brought in and then the prepa-

462 and goats.

There is no shame, however, if one has to do [887] the work of the other sex. The old people putter about, for example, the old women make mats, and the old men carve spoons, etc.

426 If one borrows corn or rice, which is done 686 for the most part, interest is charged at the rate of one hundred per cent annually. This is redoubled each year, and if it is finally unpaid, there may be a court case and the person [435] may have to pay a horse (the present price of a horse is fl. 200 and for a buffalo fl. 350).

Money is not borrowed. The reason they borrow rice and corn and why they do this from kampong fellows is that many families are too 311 large. Land is now all divided. The kampong
● 511 is full. Therefore there is actual hunger in November and December, when the crops are growing. Thus if the population continues to increase, some will have to move. The reason the Dalong folk repossessed one of the Radja's gardens was that there was an actual shortage of land. I didn't realize this trouble before. There are actually poor people here because the land is all occupied. Therefore, not even new gardens are possible here. But no one starves. I asked what the main worry was. They said getting cloth. It is very hard to get. Food is a worry only for some people.

465 There are no wage earners except for those who do a bit of work in other people's gardens. The present wage is fl. 1.00 a day. Before even this was not done.

634 In regard to political life there were Bima, 632 dalu, gelarang, and kraeng (some kampongs), and 622 the tuan tanah fifty years ago. In 1940 there 624 were the Dutch, the radja (since 1929), the dalu, gelarang tuan tanah, and kepala kampong. In 1950 there are the radja, the dalu, the gelarang, the tuan tanah, and the kepala kampong.

000 showing the basis of the elective system here.

In regard to Roti, the radio repair man said that there are seventeen radjas in the island, and all are jealous of each other's rights. It is more civilized than Savu, where there are still plenty of pagans. In both islands the main food in the mountains is sugar water. And the islands are so overpopulated that they will fight even over a bit of wood to cook sugar from a palm. This is why, Arriens says, so many people from Roti are outside, and many of them are in the government too. They are clever and are forced to leave because of the population problem.

Roti is hard to deal with as they are always having lawsuits. Every new controleur is the signal for all of the old cases to be brought up again, for generations back. The recent controleur broke down under the strain. They also spied on him, even looking at what his boy bought in the market. They are terrible troublemakers. I remember Nunuhitu saying in Makassar that his family was just getting under way again on an old lawsuit, and this time he was determined to win. Thus it is an example of the feud pattern under the pressure of great need. And there is some of the clan business too.

634 661 The radjas here are operating on a small scale, and have to make their own way, for example, Nageh has plenty of gold articles, but it is ceremonial property and cannot be sold. He has part share in a movie in Ende, along with the Chinese. The Radjas of Sikka and Larantuka are evidently in a smuggling business and in also on the sale of distribution supplies with the Chinese.

511 515 Why don't the children have their noses blown? Mrs. Arriens has a good answer, aside from general filth. It is that there is no

R

511 515 cloth to spare for their noses. This is really very true!

622 755 769 [443] On Sunday I went to Roworeke again, but at once I was taken into the rear part of the little warong at kilometer 6, which is owned by the kepala kampong. What a pitiful stock he has: a few bars of yellow soap, some bananas, and that's about all. In a little compartment behind this area he squatted, looking awful. On one side, on the floor, one of his wives were tending a fire on the earth, and on the other side was his other wife (the second one, whom I had thought a handsome pagan when she was a bit dressed up, but now she did not look so good, with betel stains, etc.). He told me about the blood pouring from his nose a few nights ago, for four to five hours. He had a high fever (still had it), and pains, and dizziness and blackouts. I tried to see what was up, but the blood was queer.

Then the assistant (his brother) said we should go and get the old dukun who was treating him. The dukun lives in Ndona. On the way there the assistant said that the dukun had already treated the kepala kampong, and that is why he had gotten better. At least the blood had stopped. I asked what the diagnosis had been, and he said it was something to do with the ancestors. The idea seemed to be that somewhere or other along the line they hadn't "fed" the ceremonial objects of the family properly, and this was the cause of the illness. The assistant said that he suspected also that the kepala kampong was too harsh in his administration, and the people were not happy about it (he has been in his post for four years now). This information was rather mumbled, perhaps so that the lads in the back seat could not hear us, and I wonder if perhaps he was inferring that someone rubbed wrong by
